Virtuoso clarinetist Jonathan Cohler teams up with renowned Claremont Trio in refreshing and insightful performances of the Beethoven and Brahms clarinet trios coupled with the romantic Dohnányi Sextet, in which Boston Symphony Orchestra principal horn player James Somerville and Borromeo Quartet violist Mai Motobuchi join the ensemble.

“recording is ideal...playing is uniformly lovely...ensemble overall is uncannily, highly nuanced...I know of no finer recording of the Beethoven, and this one stands with the best classic versions of the Brahms.”

—Fanfare

“artistic commitment that is difficult to match...The Beethoven sparkles with daring tempos, driving intensity, and a highly expressive lyricism...the interpretation works”

—American Record Guide

“a splendidly enjoyable programme” BBC Music CHOICE
